SC Department of Agriculture Requests Renewable Energy Proposals

The South Carolina Department of Agriculture and Hugh Weathers, Commissioner, are requesting renewable energy proposals as part of a new state grant and loan program. Administering the program on behalf of the State of South Carolina, the Department of Agriculture urges any public or private entity with an eligible project to apply.

A Renewable Energy Oversight Committee, designated by members of the General Assembly, the Governor, and agency heads will make final project decisions. Applicants can submit Preliminary Proposals during two grant award periods between October 2007 and June 2008. Preliminary Proposals will go through an initial screening and applicants may be invited to submit Full Proposals for review by the Oversight Committee.

Got Hay? Need Hay? Market resources for buyers and sellers

Because conditions have continued to deteriorate in South Carolina, the Drought Response Committee has upgraded the drought level to severe for all counties except Beaufort and Jasper.

The drought combined with the Easter freeze has had a devastating impact on South Carolina agriculture. One of the most critical commodities in great demand is hay for feeding livestock. The drought has delayed much-needed cuttings, significantly reducing the normal hay supply. To make matters worse, hay is also in short supply in most of the Southeastern and Southern states.

South Carolina Ag Council Offers Ag Tour

The South Carolina Agricultural Council is holding an agricultural tour on Thursday, October 11, 2007. The daylong event will include a tour of the Split Creek Goat Farm in Anderson, SC, and the Happy Cow Creamer in Pelzer, SC. Participants will register between 7:30 a.m. and 7:45 a.m. at the South Carolina Farm Bureau, 724 Knox Abbott Drive, Cayce, SC. The bus will depart sharply at 8:00 a.m. and return to the Farm Bureau building at approximately 5:30 p.m.

Due to bus seating, the tour will be limited to 56 people, so PRE-REGISTRATION IS REQUIRED. The deadline for Council members and their guests to register is Friday September 28, 2007. After that date, the tour will be open to the public until the bus seating is filled.

Beef Board Presents Banners to Auction Markets

Members of the South Carolina Beef Board and Roy Copelan, Executive Director, presented large display banners to two auction markets in the state for their cooperation in the beef check-off program and for their valuable assistance in promoting the Certified SC program.

The first presentation was held on September 5, 2007 at the Orangeburg Stockyards, 805 Whaley Street in Orangeburg. Melanie Sojourner from the National Cattlemen's Beef Association was on site for the presentation.

SC's Future is in Good Hands

I am a big believer in the value of team sports in helping young people learn lessons in life at an early age. I have seen it in all three of my sons, especially on the football field. Each summer, 1500 young men and women from across our state learn about another team sport---politics.

I have the privilege to be a part of Palmetto Boys and Girls State each summer, and my observation is that the future of South Carolina is in good hands. Each year, our best young men and women from across the state descend on the Capitol City for the week-long program designed to teach them about our governmental system and the politics that make it run. They are selected by their teachers and counselors to attend, and it is an honor to be chosen as a delegate. Only those with outstanding qualities of leadership, character, scholarship, loyalty and service to their schools and community are considered for selection. Boys State is held at USC while Girls State is held at Columbia College.

I suppose my praise for the selection process has some bias as well. Our older two sons, Gill and Edward, were selected to attend. After their year as a 'citizen', both of them returned as counselors. My niece, Jennifer Haren, has been returning every year as a counselor to Girls State. She just presented my mother with her first great-grandchild on Labor Day. Looks like she timed it in order to get back next summer. Some very dedicated folks work to make this a special week. Two of my best friends from the upstate, Tom Merritt and Will Merritt, have been giving up a week each summer for many, many years to work with the program. I am sure they could use more help if someone has the time and interest.

Boys and Girls State is called a "Laboratory of Government," because during the week, these young men and women have the opportunity to run for and be elected to mock political offices ranging from city level to state constitutional offices such as lieutenant governor and governor. It is considered to be as much leadership training as it is an opportunity to learn about and participate in government and politics. In fact, many of our state's political, business and community leaders attended Boys and Girls State.

This year, Jeb Thompson of Ridgeville, a rising senior at Summerville High School, served as this year's Commissioner of Agriculture for Boys State, and Amy Horton, a rising senior at Chesnee High School was the Commissioner of Agriculture for Girls State.

Jeb, who plays quarterback under long-time coach John McKissick, is applying to the Naval Academy where he hopes to walk on with the football team. Jeb said Boys State was a "wonderful experience" and he made some good friends there. Part of his platform was energy conservation and the future of ethanol and how it impacts farmers. Those are issues that we face today, but future generations will face as well.

Amy is deciding between Clemson and Wofford and is interested in studying marketing. She said in her home in Chesnee she is, "surrounded by agriculture." One of best friend's family owns Cooley's Strawberry Farm. Agriculture is a big part of her life. In addition to summers helping out at Strawberry Hill, Amy's family is heavily involved in agriculture.

We have a fun outing with the Girls State elected officers. They drop by Friday afternoon for ice cream and a tour of our office. The ice cream perks them up after some nights with very little sleep.

Even though they have dedicated the week to learning about their government, they are still girls! When they came into my office, they immediately pick up pictures of the boys on my desk and ask about ages, names, and 'where is he'. Nice to know their priorities are balanced.

It was a great experience to meet these young folks and hear some pretty good speeches at the closing ceremonies. I congratulate both Jeb and Amy for their success and wish them both the best of luck in the future. My thanks and appreciation goes to the American Legion and American Legion Auxiliary for continuing to put on this great program. They are teaching some good life lessons.

Renewable Energy Proposals

“Renewable energy has been a major focus among Southeastern states in recent years, said Commissioner Weathers. “Tennessee, Georgia, North Carolina, and Florida have created similar programs in their states to stimulate renewable energy development. South Carolina will benefit greatly from this program through new opportunities for farmers and businesses and through the encouragement of economic development in rural areas.”

In June 2007, the South Carolina General Assembly passed key legislation which created the program, known as the SC Renewable Energy Infrastructure Development Fund. The Fund was designed primarily to develop a strong renewable energy industry, to redirect a significant portion of energy expenditures leaving the state into South Carolina’s economy, and to foster a cleaner, healthier, more productive environment by reducing the adverse impacts of fossil fuel use.

For information about how to apply for a renewable energy grant or loan, visit www.energy.sc.gov.

Got Hay? Need Hay?

Hugh Weathers, Commissioner of Agriculture, has remained in touch with officials to find solutions to the devastation caused by these natural phenomenon. He suggests that those who have hay for sale and those who need hay should visit the USDA Farm Service Agency eHayNet. The national Internet-based Hay Net Ad Service allows farmers in every state to share 'Need Hay' ads and 'Have Hay' ads online.

If you simply want to access eHayNet to buy hay, you do not need to create an account. If you want to post a hay ad, you will need to create a user ID and password and confirm your email address. Once an account has been created, a confirmation email will be sent within one hour. After that, you may enter your ad information.

Word-of-mouth is one of the best ways for finding hay. Check with local feed stores and extension offices, other livestock owners, and hay brokers like Aiken Saddlery (803-649-6583) and East South Carolina Hay Distribution in Camden (803-432-5141). Our sister states of North Carolina and Georgia also have web sites where owners may find hay. Visit the Norh Carolina Hay Alert at <http://www.ncagr.com/HayAlert> and the Georgia Farm Bureau Hay Directory at <http://www.gfb.org/comm/hay.htm>. Also, call Don Kieffer, National Hay Association, (800-707-0014 or 727-367-9702).

Hay may also be advertised in the Market Bulletin. Send hay ads to: Advertising, Market Bulletin, PO Box 11280, Columbia, SC 29211 or email marketbulletin@scda.sc.gov, or fax to 803-734-0659.

Commissioner Weathers urges livestock owners, especially horse owners, to call their vet before feeding their animals hay that they’ve never fed before. Feeding hay that animals are not accustomed to could sometimes cause problems and can possibly cause a horse to colic.

For more information about hay availability, visit <http://www.fsa.usda.gov>, click on “Hay Net,” and follow the directions or see the Market Bulletin at <http://www.scda.state.sc.us>.
